In the theatres

There are three operating theatres inside The Malthouse.

Students attending a performance in the Merlyn Theatre may enter from either the ground floor (no stairs) or upper levels (between two and three flights of stairs) and may need to walk up stairs to access their seats once inside the theatre, or walk up stairs to access the stage area.

Students attending a performance in the Beckett Theatre will enter from the ground floor but may need to walk up stairs to access their seats once inside the theatre.

Students attending a performance in the Tower Theatre will need to walk up two flights of stairs to enter the theatre, and may need to walk up or down stairs once inside the theatre to reach their seat.

Students and teachers unable to use stairs or with special assistance requirements will also be able to access each theatre, either using a lift (Tower Theatre) or from the ground floor (Merlyn Theatre and Beckett Theatre) to access their accessible seats.

Students and teachers are advised that students are not to run at any time during their visit to The Malthouse. Teachers need to ensure that students do not run up stairs when accessing a theatre. Teachers and students are advised not to climb over seating banks in the theatre.

Before a show, during interval and after a show the lighting in the theatre is 'house lighting', dimmed lighting that allows for full visibility. During the show the theatre auditorium would be dimly lit, with stage lighting focused on the stage and low aisle lighting for the stairs. Students leaving the theatre during a performance are moving along rows and climbing stairs in a dimly lit space.

Students and teachers should at all times mind their step and follow the directions of Malthouse Theatre staff. Students may be invited on to the stage or to the stage area as a part of a workshop or lecture at Malthouse Theatre. Students may be permitted to tour the backstage area of The Malthouse. The backstage area of a working theatre should always be regarded as a place of work by visiting students. Students need to be aware of potential trip hazards which may be present in a working theatre. Students may be in proximity to technical equipment, stage properties and other related workplace materials. Students must not touch any such equipment and properties whilst on a backstage tour at Malthouse Theatre.
